According to present arrangements, he will be in Cincinnati November 29 and 20, St. Louis December 1, Minneapolis December 2 and 3, Chicago December 4 to 7, Detroit December 8, Cleveland December 9 and Pittsburgh December 10. He then will go to New York to plan for visits to eastern cities.

Mr. Lough, according to the announcement, considers that the time is opportune for the establishment of further facilities for financing United States trade and investments in South America, and that the co-operation of financial interests in the United States in placing a bank or a system of banks in South America is feasible. He also expects to suggest to interested financial men a plan for an organization to facilitate the financing of United States export trade, obtaining credit information, etc. Several banks in the cities named, it is asserted, already have active foreign departments, and assist their customers to build up South American business.

The tragic revolutionary career of Francisco Madero proved for all time that only a strong man need hope for success. The honesty of his intentions called him the apostle. But he dreamto suspicion, and overly reluctant to use extreme measures, even against proven enemies. The very guns for his first revolt against Diaz were bought without his knowledge by clearer without his knowledge by clearersighted men, while he still hoped for ess with his life. Victoriano Huerta pinned his faith Victoriano Huerta pinned his faith to the army. Where Madero trusted too little to his rifles, Huerta trusted too much. He took the presidency by force, and by force he attempted to hold it. The persistent opposition of the United States undoubtedly hastened his fall, but his ultimate defeat was inevitable. The constitutionalist forces to the north and south of him would have overthrown his government in the end, because the people were not with him. Today he is a prisoner at Fort Bliss, a negligible factor, weeping because the United States government will not accept his parole.

EL PASO, Tex., November 23.—The Mexican problem today is the problem of a man. Breaking from the restraint of tyranny, the forces of revolution have burst all bounds and turned one of the richest lands on earth into a lawless chaos. Even the landholding class to which he belongs will be kept down. Reforms may be carried out, but only under his direction. And unless the signs are wrong, Mexico is done with despotisms, benevolent or otherwise. It will only be a matter of time until a new storm be a matter of time until a new storm of revolution breaks out. So say Americans whose interests are in Mexico, who have followed the war from the beginning. They look for no more than a breathing spell under Carranza. Will we ultimately be forced to intervention? It should be a last resort. The United States might conquer Mexico, though with immensely more difficulty and an immensely greater expenditure of money and life than the advocates of intervention imagine. It would be a conquest of blood, sustained by blood. Race feeling would make occupation one long battle. Any government we might set up would stand only so long as we supported it. PROBLEMS FOR CONGRESS

Religious Liberty Association Secretary Talks on Proposed Religious Legislation.

"The Crisis Before Congress" was the subject discussed by S. B. Horton, secretary of the Columbia Religious Liberty Association, at Memorial Seventh-day Adventists Church last night. Mr. Horton was one of the speakers of a symposium on this topic "No Congress could be confronted with graver problems than those affecting the fundamental principles upon which the nation was established," he said. "We gather from press reports the information that the Sixty-fourth Congress will be called upon to consider two measures which, in our judgment, contravene the fundamental principles of American liberty.
